a daplay of strength. However, values were quoted a shade better than the general scale of last week.

MULES-Mull-receipts were light. There were about half a dozen carloads in the run, but at least half of them were constant to the dealers, leaving but a small supply on the commission market. The market was not quick to assume activity—in other words, dealers preferred rather to feel the market before beginning purchasing operations—and the result was that comparatively few mules were sold on the foremonimarical, and there were no changes quoted in the one of trade. As we there seems to be no great amount of demand from any exterior source, and dealers are trying to make the volume of their purchases conform to the volume of outside dymand.

of the associated banks in face of the thorough fiquidation to which the stock market has been subjected.

The measures shrinkage in price of securities has sound an obvious decrease in the basis of credits, and the urgent selling of securities to make this shrinkage in margins or to pay off loans cutright has been patent to all showers for month after month in the stock market. Conjecture loses itself in the attempt to guess what great glakhole can have abscribed the trumendous proceeds of all this liquidation with practically as effect on the loan item of the hanks not of the trust companies. The question of possible overestension of credits outside the securities market and the necessity for a further contraction there similar to which Wall street has been going through engage an interesting amount of attention.

WAITING FOR LIGHT.

world to sit down and wait further light on the questions. The improvement in the action of cotton over the previous months shown by the Government report on cotton agreed closely with expectations and falled to weeken the cotton market. The strength in wheat was calculated also to have a weakening effect on stocks. The weekly statistics of railroad traffic made a remarkable and favorable showing, especially in the matter of the general merchandise movement. The Western agricultural population is reported an eager buyer of all tinds of manufactures, and mills and factories are said to be so large as to tax the equipment resources of the railroads, so that a car familie is threatened.

The bond market was dull and irregular. Total sales, par value, $87,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the quent dealings the price more than lost the early gain. Reading—The first sale of Reading did not take place until the afternoon, when some long stock was pressed for sale, with the inevitable result of depressing the price. The room traders joined in the esting, but on the way down support was encountered of the same character that kept the price up during the slump. The only talk was of good earnings.

Union Pacific—The active feature of a very duli market was Union Pacific, which closed about 1 point lower. The room traders were the principal sellers, chiefly W. B. Oliver and Minzesheimer, who offered the price down. It was said that the amount of long stock delodged was disappointingly small, though there was certainly very little show of inside support.

Missouri Pacific—The bear tip on Missouri Pacific went wrong to-day. The room heard that the stock was "due" to break is points within a fortnight, but not even the room traders sold it. The beats for the prediction of lower prices was the reported change of front of an operator more or less closely connected with the Gould-Rockefeller party, who was declared to be bearrish on all stocks, and who had expressed the opinion that an announcement of the consolidation of the Gould-Rockefeller lines would not be the factor to-day it would have been last year.
